

TWO BIG PARADES IN CITY TO TEACH FIRE PREVENTION

Drennan Calls on Department to Instruct People to Guard Against Peril.

The fire prevention campaign will start in earnest on Sunday morning with special services in all the churches in conjunction with the reading of the Mayor's proclamation and the Fire Commissioner's letter to all the clergy of the city, which letter he has asked to be read from the pulpits. Although Oct. 9 is officially Fire Prevention Day, the observance this year will begin on Monday, Oct. 10.

In a special order issued to the entire fire force, Fire Commissioner Drennan ordered the force to put on an extra spurt to magnify the necessity of greater precaution against fire.

The order reads: "The New York City Fire Department for a number of years has carried on an active campaign of fire prevention and it would be an act of service if, during Fire Prevention Week, extra efforts were made to inspect as many properties as possible so as to discover and cause the removal of rubbish and other hazards."

"Much can be accomplished by acquainting the public, through addresses in the schools and otherwise, with the great need for conservation of buildings and commodities at this time and with the fact that the monumental American bonfire may be materially decreased by the exercise of greater carefulness."

"Chief officers and company commanders are hereby directed to use the forces under their command for this special work during Fire Prevention Week, detaching one man from the day platoon for eight hours each day and calling for volunteers from the off-platoon to work not less than four hours each day during the week."

Commissioner Drennan also announces that two parades will be held throughout Manhattan and Brooklyn to remind the general public of the occasion. In these parades the department will show for the first time $100,000 worth of new fire apparatus, consisting of the latest gasoline pumping engines, giant ladder trucks and some smaller ones, a new Rescue Squad wagon, besides other pieces. The Manhattan parade will be on Monday and the Brooklyn parade on Tuesday.

The Manhattan parade will be led by Deputy Chief of Department Thomas J. Hayes, in charge of the Bureau of Fire Prevention. The Department Band will play throughout the march along the principal thoroughfares from 116th Street and Broadway, beginning at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The parade will go south to 5th Street, to Eighth Avenue, to 14th Street, to Seventh Avenue, to Chambers Street, to Broadway, to Warren Street, to City Hall Plaza, to Park Row, to Broadway, to Bowling Green, to State Street, to Whitehall Street, to Broadway, north to Park Row, to East Broadway, to Clinton Street, to Avenue B, to 14th Street, to First Avenue, to 72d Street and disband.

The Brooklyn parade, held Tuesday, will start at Flatbush Avenue Extension and High Street at 10:30 A. M. The line of march is from Flatbush Avenue to Myrtle Avenue, to Court Street, to Hamilton Avenue, to 15th Street, to Fourth Avenue, to 16th Street, to Fort Hamilton Avenue, to Prospect Park Southwest, to Prospect Park South, to Eastern Parkway, to Glenmore Avenue, to Pennsylvania Avenue, to Bushwick Avenue, to Willoughby Avenue, to Bedford Avenue, to Division Avenue, to Berry Street, to Manhattan Avenue, to Jackson Avenue, to Queensboro Bridge and disband.
